

November may have been a short month, but it was full of big surprises for the Autistic program! Each class received an iPad from a well-deserved grant. As the teachers became more fluent in their “ipading” abilities, the fun began for the children.

So many apps, so little time. The children were seen using apps to identify states, compute math problems, expand language skills, and build reading and writing skills, among so much more!

As we look ahead to December and closing out the year 2011, we see a brighter future for 2012 with the endless opportunities our new iPads provide!
