

Kindergarten Highlights

December 2011

Wow! We can't believe it's almost 2012. We finished up this year with lots of fun activities. First, we had guest readers come to our classrooms. They read some of their favorite books to us and they were very excited to meet us. Speaking of reading, lots of us brought our parents to school one night this month to share with them our joy of reading. We also had the chance to buy gifts for some of our friends in need and put them under the Giving Tree. It felt really great to help other people, especially kids. This made us feel proud and responsible, which was our character pillar for the month. Aren't we so grown up?

Our days were so busy. We had music every week to get ready for the big Winter Concert. We also went holiday shopping and bought gifts for some of our favorite people. It's fun to get presents, but it feels nice to give them too! We finished up the month learning about the many holidays that all of our friends celebrate this time of year. We watched holiday movies, did some cooking and made lots of crafts. It was awesome to do things that we don't usually get to do, but now we are tired and ready for winter break. See you in 2012!
